In case you missed it

"Cost of Care", a three-part series developed by CTV Kitchener news reporter Tyler Calver broadcast on December 20 - 22, 2017.

Delving into the question of "who pays for hospitals?", Calver examined the significant cost associated with the delivery of innovative care, highlighting the fact that all is not covered by Ontario's current health care funding model.

Through hospital foundations, financial contribution of the community is required to purchase equipment - large and small - which is vital to patient care.
